

Leave a Legacy of Faith: Ensure Vocations Thrive for Generations to Come

Throughout our lives, God blesses us with many gifts, family, faith, and the ability to support His Church. One powerful way to pass on those blessings is through legacy giving. By including Vocation Ministry in your estate plans, you can help nurture future vocations and ensure the Church continues to flourish for generations.

What is Legacy Giving?

Legacy giving, also known as planned giving, allows you to make a lasting impact through thoughtful gifts that support your values, often at no cost to you during your lifetime. These gifts are typically arranged through your will, trust, or by naming Vocation Ministry as a beneficiary of your retirement or financial accounts.

Common Ways to Give:

- Gifts in Your Will or Trust: A simple, meaningful way to make a long-term impact. Including a bequest to Vocation Ministry can help cultivate vocations for years to come.
- Non-Probate Assets: Retirement accounts (such as 401(k)s or IRAs), life insurance policies, and other financial instruments can be designated directly to Vocation Ministry. This may reduce tax burdens on your heirs while supporting a mission close to your heart.

Why Make a Planned Gift?

- You can make a meaningful gift without impacting your finances today.
- You may reduce taxes for your loved ones.
- You leave a legacy of faith and discipleship.
- You help ensure that young men and women will continue to hear and answer God's call.

Prayerfully Consider Your Legacy

We invite you to reflect on the blessings you've received and prayerfully consider how you might pass them on. A planned gift is more than a financial decision — it is a statement of faith, hope, and love for the future of the Church.
